GENEALOGY NIGHT

Are you interested in researching your family tree?

Come connect and share with others interested in genealogy at Amanda-Clearcreek Middle School on Thursday, February 21st in Room 1100 from 7:00-8:30pm. This is a great opportunity for all levels of researchers: From "you aren't sure where or how to get started on your family history" to someone who wants some extra time to research and fill in those missing branches. We have an evening of fun planned which will include a presentation from a local historian, learning the basics of family research, and finally opportunities to explore Ancestry.com. Along with an informative folder, you will have full access to the Ancestry.com databases provided through a grant that was obtained several years ago. If you cannot make this evening's event, future nights will be held on March 21st and April 18th with different presenters and topics each night.
